

GEOHERMAL GROUND-COUPLED HEAT PUMP CORPORATE INCOME TAX CREDIT CLAIM FORM (2024)

Purpose of Form: Form TRD-41427, Geothermal Ground-Coupled Heat Pump Corporate Income Tax Credit Claim Form (2024), is used by a taxpayer who has been certified for a geothermal ground-coupled heat pump tax credit by the Energy, Minerals and Natural Resources Department (EMNRD) and wishes to claim the credit against corporate income tax or subchapter S corporate income tax. If claiming a credit against personal income tax or fiduciary income tax, use Form TRD-41426, Geothermal Ground-Coupled Heat Pump Income Tax Claim Form (2024).

Who may file this form: The geothermal ground-coupled heat pump corporate income tax credit may be claimed by a taxpayer who files a New Mexico corporate income tax or subchapter S corporate income tax return for a tax year beginning on or after January 1, 2024, and has purchased and installed a geothermal ground-coupled heat pump after May 15, 2024, but before December 31, 2034, in a residence, business or agricultural enterprise in New Mexico owned by that taxpayer, or owned by a partnership or other business association of which the taxpayer is a member.

How to claim the credit: The taxpayer must attach to the return a completed TRD-41427 and a copy of the letter from EMNRD certifying the geothermal ground-coupled heat pump and approving the taxpayer for the credit. Also, attach the completed Schedule CR for the applicable tax return. The credit, which may not exceed $9,000, is available for up to 30% of the purchase costs. The credit is applied to the taxpayer's tax liability in the tax year it is claimed, with the remaining amount refunded to the taxpayer. EMNRD may allow a maximum annual aggregate of $4,000,000 in geothermal ground-coupled heat pump corporate income tax credits. Applications for the credit are considered in the order received by EMNRD.

To apply for the credit, contact the Energy Conservation and Management Division of EMNRD at (505) 476-3310 to leave a message, email EMNRD.taxcredits@emnrd.nm.gov, or visit their web site <https://www.emnrd.nm.gov/ecmd/tax-incentives/>. For assistance completing this form or claiming the credit, email BusinessCredit.Mgr@tax.nm.gov call (505) 827-0792.
